Put Some WOW On Your Walls!

Here's the most powerful color: red. Red can make a quiet statement or add drama wherever it appears. It's the wow color, whether it's on the wall, on a Chinese red chest or a painted accent chair.

Anyone can stand a touch of red. It shakes things up when seen on pillows and throws, or center-pieces and napkins. (The red Ferrari always shook things up, but that's another story.)

Decorators are taking the power of red a step further and using it for focal points in various rooms. Consider the flaming red pendant light grouping by Cinnamon Alvarez, CEO of A19 in Toronto.

Charlie Chair designer Karen McKinnon said in a recent interview, "No matter how gloomy the weather on a gray rain-soaked day, this chair invites a little sunshine in."

The Charlie Chair has wide red and white stripes. It's painted with an exterior grade finish so it can go outside for the summer. It was introduced at the 2009 furniture market in High Point, N.C.

Interviewed for the Indianapolis Star, McKinnon says that people often like to be creative and playful in their decor, and red focal points are fun.

Red can anchor a room with a solid, tone-on-tone rug or a rug that includes red as part of its overall pattern. Then red can be pulled out in accessories such as pillows.

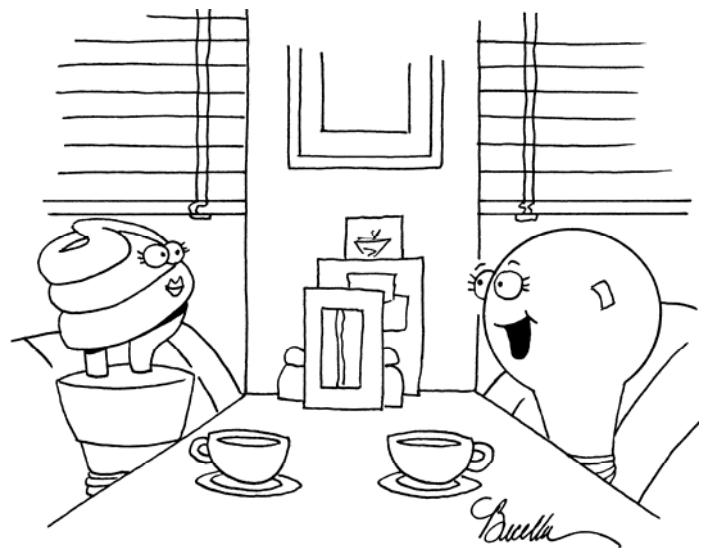

Love doesn't make the world go round. Love is what makes the ride worthwhile.

COMMUNITY LIFE

I want to share that I have started a great new coaching course for manufacturers and suppliers called "The Manufacturers Peak Coaching Course".

This is for Business's to have more customers paying a higher price without flinching an eyelid. The course is broken into 26 fortnightly sections, each one on a special topic having its own workbook.

I have been studying and learning now for many years so now is the time to share this knowledge and love for manufacturing with others. The Business is called www.strategicalforce.com if you want to receive a copy of my free e-book called the "12 Blueprint Essentials for manufacturers" then go to this site and fill out the form and click on the Button and this 104 page book will be sent to you. Inside you will discover what the 12 secrets are that are going to skyrocket your business no matter what the economy. So got to www.strategicalforce.com now and receive this valuable information.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

ARIES: Your playful spirit comes to the fore as Halloween approaches. Add creativity and conjure up innocent games for a party, whether it be for kids or adults.

TAURUS: You're right about your decision to invest more time in your home life. Your work is important, but your personal life is the basis for your success in all endeavors.

GEMINI: The cooler days remind you that recreation is coming indoors for the winter. You have a heightened awareness of your body now. Address physical challenges and improve your fitness.

CANCER: A better understanding of your job lifts your spirits. It pays to get clarification from your boss on how far you can take an issue. The ball's in your court.

LEO: Keeping to a routine at work can give you a feeling of security. Sometimes it's best just to do your job well instead of looking around for frontiers to conquer.

VIRGO: Playing host even casually will pay off. Ask friends to bring their friends and expand your social circle. At work, you gain luck by helping others with difficult tasks. Authority figures notice you.

LIBRA: When invited to hang out with brilliant people, do it, even if it's not your favorite activity. Spending time with bright people can give ideas about goals you can set for yourself or for your work.

SCORPIO: If you've had a few months of very intense work to deal with, now could be the time to take a few days off to rest your brain and get your situation organized before the holiday season begins.

SAGITTARIUS: The night of the full moon on October 4th should be a watchful time. Odd things could happen and people could behave in unfathomable ways. Observe them but don't comment or take action.

CAPRICORN: Your can-do attitudes serve you well when things go awry. It's a part of your charm that brings people together when circumstances demand it.

AQUARIUS: You are on a solid path to better financial circumstances. But life is like a card game. You have limited assets and other players want them.

PISCES: A loved one needs more of your time and attention. Make room for it in your life. Sometimes, however, your strength will be measured not by holding on but by letting go.

Traveler's Insight...

A bump can be worth money

Fliers who are bumped because the airline overbooked are entitled to compensation by law, according to Smart Money.

Some travelers step right up when the agent ask for volunteers. The compensation is up to $400 for a one-to two-hour delay in getting to their destination.

It's double the ticket price up to $800 if they arrive more than two hours later than scheduled.
